All courses are shown under 'all subjects' and can be accessed via <https://www.futurelearn.com/courses>. This formed the starting point of the webscraper and this is the first page:

The scraper finds the maximum number of pages below:

The scraper scrapes the urls of each course of each page, as shown above. Below you can see one of the courses. Please note that the 'New' label is missing:

This screenshot shows the course page for 'Anatomy: Know Your Abdomen' on FutureLearn. Red dashed boxes and arrows highlight specific elements: 'Category' points to 'Online Courses / Healthcare & Medicine'; 'Header' points to the University of Leeds logo; 'Star rating and reviews' points to the 4.7 star rating from 218 reviews; 'Description' points to the text 'Discover the human abdomen and how it works.'; and 'Enrolments' points to the text '136,886 enrolled on this course'. A 'Join course' button is also visible. The page features a teal background with a white anatomical diagram of the human abdomen.

Some courses do have a 'New' label, but in that case the reviews and number of enrolments will be missing, as can be seen below:

This screenshot shows the course page for 'Design Board Games for Socio-Political Change' on FutureLearn. A red dashed box labeled 'New label' points to a pink 'NEW' badge. The course is from Abertay University. The page includes a 'Join course' button and a large image of hands playing a board game. At the bottom, there are details about the course: 'Duration 3 weeks', 'Weekly study 3 hours', '100% online', and 'Unlimited €20 €14.17/month'. A 'Support' button is in the bottom right corner.

When you scroll down, there's more information:
